Dietary Needs Grid

One row per person living in the household — fill this in before sign-ups start

The single kindest thing a meal train can do is get this right. One serious allergic reaction or one ignored preference and a whole tray goes in the trash. Ask the direct questions below, then hand this sheet to every volunteer.

Person	ALLERGIES — list every food, and note if it's severe	Must avoid (medical, religious, post-op, nursing)	Strong dislikes — worth knowing	Comfort favorites — guaranteed wins	Best drop-off time(s)

Household notes

Topic	Notes
Safe kitchen for prep (allergy rules)
Freezer space available? (yes / limited / packed)
Reheating setup (oven ok? just microwave?)
Utensils / disposable pans wanted? (if so, volunteers leave food in throw-away pans)
Delivery quirks (gate code, dog, baby sleep hours, cooler spot)
Drinks, snacks, staples that always help

Write it out fully — no abbreviations. "No nuts" is ambiguous (peanuts? tree nuts? both?). "Severe allergy: peanuts, peanut oil" is a sentence a stranger can follow in a grocery aisle at 5 p.m.

Circle anything severe above and attach the allergen flags from this kit directly to the sign-up sheet so nobody has to remember from memory.
